

Thoughts on the Time of the Subject and Psychoanalysis

Invitation to a series of lectures from the Encore Forum 2023

Forum Encore of the International Forums of the Lacanian Field invites you to a series of annual lectures on the subject:

Thoughts on the Time of the Subject and Psychoanalysis

Time in psychoanalysis is perceived in a subversive way.

There is no time in the unconscious. Time is not the chronological order of events in the time of the clock, but is a logic and synchronous time, whereas all the times are unified in the present moment.

“Once upon a time”; “I shall be-come that I shall be-come” (Exodus, ch.3, 14):

In a certain sense the future of the subject comes before the past: who I was, who I should have been, it depends on the making of my future, who I will be in the past of the others that affect me; that name me. I will know something about what drives me only if I keep going. Those are the spirals of time and not full turnings. I will never know what drives me. However, at a certain point in time, I will be able to tell the story of my history; a story that is not “the entire truth” and therefore it will change and can be told again and again, in retrospect to infinity.

The series will start on January 10th, 2023 and will be held via Zoom once a month on Tuesdays at 20:00. The series is open to the public who is interested in psychoanalysis and in culture in our time. A link to Zoom will be sent to those who register for the meeting.
